

ABSTRACT

20 A slurry for removing metals, useful in the manufacture of integrated circuits generally, and for the chemical mechanical polishing of noble metals particularly, may be formed by combining periodic acid, an abrasive, and a buffer system, wherein the pH of the slurry is between about 4 to about 8.